John Updike LE | Flickr - Photo Sharing! For Reader's Digest
Scott Laumann $25 USD

Portrait of John Updike :: originally created for Reader's Digest.

+ One of America's beloved writers, poets and critics... and a great portrait subject!

Paper size is 8x10" with a small border around the image and my signature at the bottom. Ready to frame with or without matting.

Also available as an 11x14" print and a 13x19" limited edition . Please see my other listings.

This is an archival print of my original artwork. I take great care to oversee the whole process and am very particular (obsessive) when it comes to color and image quality. They are as close as you can get to the original.

All of my prints are made with Ultrachrome pigment inks on Aurora Fine Art paper, which is heavy weight (250 gsm), 100% cotton rag and acid free. It has a bright white velvet surface, a unique museum quality feel and will not fade.

I sign all prints personally.

All prints are packaged with care in a clear sleeve and safely placed between two boards, wrapped, and shipped via USPS in a recyclable stay-flat mailer. Everything should arrive safe and sound.

*Colors may vary slightly depending on your monitor.

Frame not included.

New Portrait Store

THE SECOND FACE
: portraits by scott laumann

Most of my work lately has involved exploring shape and pattern and has taken me in some new directions in different disciplines. But prior to this, most of my work was portraits completed for a variety of publications and private commissions. As a result, I have a large archive of paintings and images. Some of the originals have sold over the years, but many are collecting dust in storage and the images, once licensed for a one-time use, are going unused and unseen.

I decided to put a portrait store up on Etsy. The store is called "The Second Face" and contains print editions of many of my favorite portraits over the years. They are reasonably priced, archival quality and ready to frame. This is the first time I've shown some of them and none of them have been available for purchase at this price. I will be listing some original paintings in the future.

If you want to check them out, click the below link. As always, I am humbled and grateful for any sales.

P O R T R A I T S

1995 - present

These images represent a large, continuing body of work focusing on celebrity figures and cultural icons. Making use of reference materials including existing AP photos and internet images, these figures are created in a new, isolated environment where I am able to transpose their particular identities with my own. Collectively, these pieces can be viewed as a sort of single self-portrait.

Employing the use of a cut paper "grid" and layers of mixed media, the work consistently aims to reveal the complexity of the subjects' elevated status juxtaposed with the fragility of their humanness.
